

Breast Cancer

Poly-MVA Cancer Patient Testimonials

Elizabeth Powers

Date: August 16, 2013

Diagnosis: Breast Cancer Stage I

No
Picture
Available

2 Updates

12-23-13 – 5-15-18

I tried to rid myself of cancer naturally and when I failed I looked for products that could protect my body as I went through traditional treatment.

I am doing amazingly well for going through chemo. I feel almost normal with the exception that my appetite has diminished. The first few days, after chemo, I am a litter more tired and prone to occasional stomach aches. In a few days though I end up feeling very good and I continue with my life as normal.

I have had 3 chemo treatments since taking poly-mva.

My labs test show that my WBC is normal. I have had very few symptoms with my chemo and people are astounded that I am undergoing chemo as my energy is so good and I have few side effects from chemo. I feel unusually good almost normal although my appetite is not as good as it should be as I am very thin.

I do many things to help myself through this process. Acupuncture treatment every 3 weeks plus a lymphatic massage. In addition I do coffe enemas every other day or so to help my liver.

I however feel that Poly-MVA is the main reason I feel as good as I do.

I therefore, recommend this product often to others. The staff is great and Gary Matson a God sent: very kind and thoughtful individual. Vivian was great as helpful as well.

Elizabeth

12-23-2013

Spoke to Elizabeth. She did well on the first 4 rounds of Chemo and then had real problems. As a result, her Dr. gave her the ok not to have the 5th round of Chemo because her counts were all good. They still want her to do radiation. She intends to drop the Poly down from 6 tsp to 4 until she starts the radiation.

5-15-2018

Spoke to Elizabeth. She shares Poly MVA info with others. She is not taking Poly at this time.