Poly gave a feeling of well being within a few days.

I took Poly for over 6 months but the cancer was causing severe nerve damage. I got to a point that I could not walk and went to the emergency room. The doctor tested everything they could test but other than the cancer, all my organs were perfect.

The poly was not strong enough to stop the cancer, so I had to go on chemo. When I finished the chemo, I went back on the poly. It started healing the nerve damage within 2 weeks, and has continued to heal the damage much faster than it would have without poly.

I went through this before in 1991, had nerve damage then but was able to stop it by having radiation and changing my diet. The nerve damage was nowhere near as severe as this time has been, but took years to heal.

That is why I know the poly has really sped up the healing time as well as keeping the rest of my body healthy. Also keeping me in remission so far.

The staff has always been very helpful and the poly is great stuff, I highly recommend using poly.

I believe poly has kept my cancer in remission, when doctors told me I would have no breaks, but would continue to get worse until I died.

The doctors told me repeatedly there would be no remission.

Each month I went for checkups and bloodwork, the cancer had not started up again. The doctors don't understand how I have gone so long with the cancer not coming back. I believe the poly is large part of what is keeping me going and healing. I also take vitamins and eat a very clean, healthy diet.
